Dear [REDACTED]

FOIAb3b

This will acknowledge with thanks your letter of 9 November 1947 addressed to [REDACTED] who is absent on another assignment at the present time.

I am sorry that some pages were missing from your copy of "Shortwave Broadcasting Stations of the World". Replacements are enclosed.

With reference to your request for European schedules, I hope that the attached list will be of some help to you. It should be pointed out, however, that most European schedules are just now in the process of adjustment to winter-time, and are also subject to change on account of electric power changes in certain areas. BBC schedules are not included among these, but I will send you a copy of "London Calling" as soon as a new one arrives from which you can work them out.

Thank you for your many letters with useful information concerning some transmitters. We hope to continue to hear from you.

Very truly yours,

FOIAb3b
